Probation Claimed Better for Man Than Prison Term

And it's an effective method of gram. preventing future crime. That's the opinion of the 15-member Ohio Committee on Delinquency and Crime. So why, the committee asks, does the state keep pouring thousands of people into its already over-crowded penal institutions?

To support its contention that probations be increased, the committee presents this argument:

1. It costs $1,000 a year to keep an inmate in prison—$200 to put him on probation for a year.

2. With more prisoners on pro bation, there's less space needed to house them. That cuts down on money to build new institutions.

3. A prisoner on probation can work and support his family. If he's in prison, welfare funds frequently are needed to keep the family going.

"Where it has been tried, ade-quate probation has proven to be considerably more economical and provides equal protection to the community as does incarceration in as many as 75 per cent of the cases," the committee said.

With commitments to Ohio prisons increasing yearly, Ohio tax-payers will be faced with spending an additional 60.2 million dollars by 1962, the group asserted.

That's over and above money needed to take care of new buildings and programs for the present inmate population - about 11,500, and expected tojumpto 13,000 in two years.

Nebraska Jury Finds Her Guilty in Slayings

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) - A jury today found Caril Ann Fugate guilty of first degree murder for helping Charles Starkweather on a killing rampage last January. Life imprisonment was prescribed.

Starkweather, 19, was convicted on identical charges last May and drew a death sentence, still to be executed.

The jury verdict against Starkweather's 15 - year - old ex-sweetheart was delivered at 11:10 a.m. to climax a trial that began nearly four weeks ago. Caril Ann broke into sobs when the verdict was announced. She buried her face against the shoulder of Defense Lawyer Merril Reller, seated beside her and crying racked her 91-pound 5 foot one inch frame. Her sobbing could be heard throughout the courtroom. John McArthur, chief defense at-

Here Are Pros and Cons Award Meeting On Tuesday's Corn Vote

County Agent, Agriculture
A large majority of Ohio farmers will be eligible to vote in a corn referendum to be held Tuesday.
You are eligible if you grow corn in one of Ohio's 71 commercial corn counties.

The alternatives in the voting are: (A) No acreage allotments with the level of price support at 90 per cent of the average price received by farmers in the three preceding years, but not less than 65 per cent of parity. There would be no designated commercial corn area. Support commercial corn area. Support level for other feed grains would be proportionate to corn after adjustment for feeding value and

For the 1959 crop the estimated support price on all corn grown likely would be $1.15 a bushel or a little higher.

(B) The alternative is for acreage allotments to continue in the commercial corn producing area with price support available to those who stay within allotments at 75 and 90 per cent of parity. Support for other feed grains is de-cided by the Secretary of Agriculture. There would be no minimum support level on other feed grains but in the past they have been

For the 1959 crop, support price on corn likely would be about $1.30 a bushel for those who stay within

Under alternative (B) support in the non-commercial area would amount to 75 per cent of the commercial rate or about $1 a bushel.

THE DEPARTMENT OF Agriculture has announced that because of heavy corn supplies the allotment for the 1959 crop will be about 33,000,000 acres or nearly 15 per cent below the allotment for of resources. the 1958 crop. This will be effective if the allotment program is favored by those voting.

A simple majority of all producers in the 1958 commercial area the two proposals will become effective. More detail, including lo-Stabilization Committee offices.

More Explanation of Alternative

For the 1959 crop there is not much difference between the last three-year average corn price and the 65 per cent parity price. Estimates are that the average price for the last three years was around $1.28 a bushel. This includes an allowance for corn placed under price support and delivered to the Commodity Credit Corporation ty per cent of $1.28 is $1.15.

Parity price for corn in 1959 probably will be below the $1.76 a bushel of September, 1958. If we assume it will be around $1.70 a bushel, 65 per cent of this would equal $1.10 a bushel.

Should parity turn out to be $1.75, support rate at 65 per cent would be $1.14.) The figures used here are only estimates and may not be exactly the official support rate which will be announced later. More Explanation for Alternative (B): If allotments are favored by those voting, support rate probably would be 75 per cent of parity price. If we again assume this to be $1.70, the support rate for compliers on corn allotments would be $1.28 a bushel. If parity should equal $1.75, the support rate would be $1.31 a bushel,

Perhaps there are other arguments on both sides (like those following, some valid and some not valid). The vote on Tuesday pretty much adds up to this: Determining if price should be the major item to influence amount of resources going into corn production or if a restrictive system is better for a commodity like corn.

THOSE IN FAVOR of allotments and higher price supports (alterna tive (B) contend: 1. Market price doesn't satisfactorily allocate resources of production. Agriculture is very competitive while many non-farm industries are less competitive, price-

2. New techniques in production constantly put downward pressure on price of farm products to a greater extent than for non-farm commodities.

3. Prices of things farmers buy are high because non-farm businesses can and do limit amount of resources going into production of non-farm produced items.

4. Number of farmers shouldn't be allowed to decrease much furtheven it it means inefficient use

5. Society should determine a "fair" price or income for farm products in line with other prices and then force production down to the level to bring about this price. 6. At least in the short run, in comes to farmers producing corn for sale would be held higher by government purchases even though stocks held by government might increase. 7. Adjustments don't come about rapidly enough in agriculture without some special controls or limitations. Those in favor of "no allotments" (alternative (A)) con-

1. Allotment programs don't work, especially with a commodity like corn where such a large percentage is fed. It is very difficult to enforce allotments under these conditions, even if controlling of production were acceptable for other commodities.

2. "Price" is the only device which has been found practical for farmers to use in deciding what and how much to produce. Such terms as "parity" are outmoded and only cause confusion when it comes to operating a program. In practice they're unworkable.

3. Acreage allotments cause some farmers to add more capital,

COOL ME, MADAM

Old women once held curative powers-or so folks believed. Their wrinkled hands laid on feverish brows were thought to cool the fever. Now, in this golden era of modern medicine, we have more reliable methods of reducing temperatures. But, remember, a temperature is only a symptom . . . not an illness in itself. Fevers have many causes . . . some minor . . .

some serious. So, be sensible. When you or a member of your family is ill, let your doctor do the diagnosing

In its latest projection of population expansion in the next 22 years, the Census Bureau has new figures indicating a 1975 population of 215 million to 243 millionbarring major depressions, catastrophic war, epidemics. The projected increase, exceeding earlier forecasts, would be a gain of from 40 to 68 million over the present population of 175 million.

The population is gaining rapidly for two big reasons-more babies and longer life. The baby boom is now in its 18th year, having started in 1940 when U. S. entry in World War II appeared imminent. Prosperity since the war has encouraged young couples to have larger families than their Older people are living longer, thanks to advances in medicine and nutrition. At the turn of the century, the number of those in the over-65 group was about 3 million in 1940, 9 million, and last year 15 million. This group is expected to number about 24.5 million by 1980.

This steady and vigorous growth in population has great social, economic and political significance. As one of the most potent forces in the economy, it is of tremendous importance to business. It means an increased demand for just about everything, requiring a vast expansion of presently high productive capacity.

More food, shelter, clothing and transportation must be provided in the coming years. The baby crop will need more infant food, toys, nursery furniture. Those catering to the teenagers will have to get busy supplying sporting goods, ice cream, chewing gum and whatnot.

For the oldsters there will be needed further development of geriatric medicines, foods, clothing and even especially suited housing.

The growth in population means all this and problems, too-new and worsened old problems of food supplies, traffic congestion, finding a place to live, jobs, and so on. Just the same, the more the merrier.

Well, late at night, at a birthday party for Frances, when the power of the martinis equals the strength of human sympathy, my wife gets a kind of awesome respect a woman really deserves. Particularly, one with all that background.

The guests have a pure unalloyed sense of pleasure at being in the presence of true greatness, and I must say, as her husband, I sensed the same thing long ago.

Frances accepts birthday tributes with a gratitude that is sincere but has a frosty reserve. She holds her secret and intends to. Sooner or later a guest always asks, "Oh, Frances, how many candles should we light on your. birthday cake?"

And Frances turns to me, and there is but one answer:

The More, the Merrier

Each new estimate of the population's growth in the United States is higher than the preceding one. In fact, the government is having quite a time keeping up its estimates with the trend of new babies and their grandparents.

In its latest projection of population expansion in the next 22 years, the Census Bureau has new figures indicating a 1975 population of 215 million to 243 millionbarring major depressions, catastrophic war, epidemics. The projected increase, exceeding earlier forecasts, would be a gain of from 40 to 68 million over the present population of 175 million.

The population is gaining rapidly for two big reasons-more babies and longer life. The baby boom is now in its 18th year, having started in 1940 when U. S. entry in World War II appeared imminent. Prosperity since the war has encouraged young couples to have larger families than their parents had.

Older people are living longer, thanks to advances in medicine and nutrition. At the turn of the century, the number of those in the over-65 group was about 3 million in 1940, 9 million, and last year 15 million. This group is expected to number about 24.5 million by 1980.

This steady and vigorous growth in population has greaf social, economic and political significance. As one of the most potent forces in the economy, it is of tremendous importance to business. It means an increased demand for just about everything, requiring a vast expansion of presently high productive capacity.

More food, shelter, clothing and transportation must be provided in the coming years. The baby crop will need more infant food, toys, nursery furniture. Those catering to the teenagers will have to get busy supplying sporting goods, ice cream, chewing gum and whatnot.

For the oldsters there will be needed further development of geriatric medicines, foods, clothing and even especially suited housing.

The growth in population means all this and problems, too-new and worsened old problems of food supplies, traffic congestion, finding a place to live, jobs, and so on. Just the same, the more the merrier.

Why the Attack on FBI?

Slowly, it builds up. First, it appeared in "The Nation"; then we heard it was coming to the "New York Post"; then it actually appeared in "The Worker." It will move round and round like a black wind-the attack on J. Edgar Hoover.

What is it that those engaged in this are trying to prove? It is that the FBI is no better than the secret police of Soviet Russia; that we are, in effect, a police state. What has thus far been brought to the surface is nothing, but the boom of the Big Lie fills the air: it will be repeated and repeated.

"The Nation" is supposed to be a great liberal organ. It once was. This much is evident: it dislikes J. Edgar Hoover, an entire issue's worth. In the investigation of Harvey Matusow, it was shown that R. Lawrence Siegel, general counsel for "The Nation." Hadassah R. Shapiro, his associate, and the assistant to the publisher of the magazine, Martin Solow, were indicted. The following reason was given at the time by Thomas A. Bolan, of the U. S. Attorney's office:

In the springtime of 1954, Carey McWilliams put Matusow in touch with Siegel. Siegel had a number of meetings with Matusow (prior to the latter's recantations in January 1955) and recorded the substance of his conversations in contemporaneous typewritten memoranda. When asked to produce the memoranda by the grand jury, Siegel instead destroyed them and created fictitious memoranda in their place which he passed on to the grand jury as originals. When the grand jury asked to see the shorthand notes for the memoranda, he had the original notes destroyed and had his secretary write fictitious notes to correspond to the fictitious memoranda. Miss Shapiro aided him in this scheme. On July 13, 1955, they were indicted for obstructing justice and perjury. In January 1958, Siegel was convicted of three counts of obstructing justice and four counts

an American institution. In this effort appears the curious character, Paul Hughes, who collected nearly $11,000 over a period of a year from Sen. Mc-Carthy's opponents. Hughes was indicted for perjury, for testifying, among other things, before the grand jury that Joseph L. Rauh, Jr., a Washington, D. C. lawyer and a leader in the A.D.A., knew that the information he obtained from Hughes was false.

Rauh and James Wechsler, editor of the "New York Post," were called before the grand jury in this matter. In the Hughes trial the question arose as to whether Rauh had told Wechsler that he, Rauh, had planted a secret informer on Sen. McCarthy's staff. NEW FORM NEW GRACE NEW FEEL NEW SPACE

all new all over again. And the longer you look, the more you find to like. Chevy's Slimline design, for example, with new and roomier Body by Fisher, makes for more comfortable seating and surrounds you with vastly increased visibility area. Chevrolet's remarkable new Magic-Mirror finish keeps its shine without waxing or polishing for up to three years!

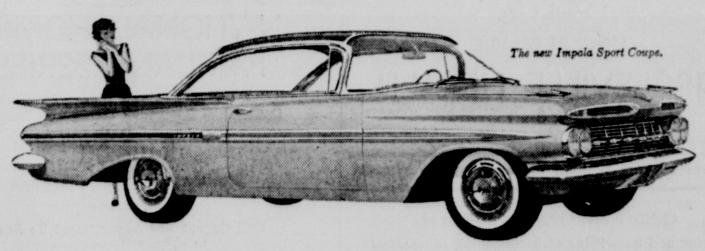

And there's new feel, new efficiency beneath that beauty. Smootherthan-ever suspensions. Bigger One look shows you Chevrolet's brakes for safer stops. A new Hi-Thrift 6 that delivers up to 10% greater gas economy along with more usable horsepower at the speeds you drive most. Everything you want in a car is wrapped up beautifully in the '59 Chevrolet. It's new right down to its easier riding, easier rolling Tyrex cord tires-but strong as ever in those traditional Chevrolet qualities of economy and dependability. Drive it at your Chevrolet dealer's now.

NEW YORK (AP) - One thing about Rory Calhoun, the muscular music lover. He always is eligible for the "Fighter of the Month." Rory will be making his 10th appearance of the year tonight when he takes on old reliable Ralph "Tiger" Jones at Madison

Except for the fact that he has been making money, this has not been one of Calhoun's better years. He was stopped for the first time, Jan. 20 by Spider Webb in San Francisco. He also lost Cocisions to Joey Giardello and Gene (Ace) Armstrong. Now is is No. 10 middle in the Ring rankings and No. 6 by the National Boxing Assn. in the light heavy

Brown Predicts No. 1 for Duncan

CLEVELAND (AP) - Coach Paul E. Brown predicts that Iowa's Randy Duncan will be the No. 1 choice in the National Football League draft Dec. 1.

Dick Gallagher, a scout for the Cleveland Browns, agrees with his boss that the No. 1 choice will be a quarterback. But Gallagher believes the choice will be Lee Grosscup, the fine Utah passer.

County-Wide Phone Service Urged To Enjoy Nature in Ohio Asked of GTC

special meeting November 12 in

They were Jack Clark and C. E. Myers. After a discussion of the matter, on a motion by Don McDill and a second by William Rhinesmith, the group voted to ask Richard Penn, attorney, to draft petitions asking for that service.

Four petitions were drafted and have been placed in Archie's Market, Fry's Store, Sinclair Station and Myers is personally circulating one. Any telephone patron in the Williamsport area may sign one if interested. These will be presented to the Public Utilities Commission, when completely

For some time, people in the Williamsport area have felt that there should be county-wide service or at least free service to Circleville. It was also felt that in many instances the service that is furnished could be improved.

ATTENDING the meeting were: A. J. Cook, mayor; George E. Hamman, clerk; Archie Rawlin-son, Don McDill, William Rhinesmith, Harold Fry, Marvin Cook,

County-Wide Phone Service Asked of GTC

Representatives of patrons of General Telphone Co. in the Wiltelephone service for the area at a special meeting November 12 in the Council rooms.

They were Jack Clark and C. E. Myers. After a discussion of the matter, on a motion by Don McDill and a second by William Rhinesmith, the group voted to ask Richard Penn, attorney, to draft petitions asking for that service.

Four petitions were drafted and have been placed in Archie's Market, Fry's Store, Sinclair Station and Myers is personally circulating one. Any telephone patron in the Williamsport area may sign one if interested. These will be presented to the Public Utilities Commission, when completely signed.

For some time, people in the Williamsport area have felt that there should be county-wide service or at least free service to Circleville. It was also felt that in many instances the service that is furnished could be improved.

ATTENDING the meeting were: A. J. Cook, mayor; George E. Hamman, clerk; Archie Rawlin-son, Don McDill, William Rhinesmith, Harold Fry, Marvin Cook, councilmen:

O-ville Rotary Urged To Enjoy Nature in Ohio

A. W. Short, administrative assistant to the chief of the Division of Wildlife, Department of Natural liamsport are a presented argu- Resources, yesterday told the Cirments for county-wide and better cleville Rotary Club that Ohio's natural resources are vital to the state's life.

> Short, speaking on "Ohio's Changing Natural Resources Picture in a Changing World," gave the Rotarians a brief glimpse of what Ohio was like when it was settled in 1788.

He then described the state's stature in the nation in regard to industry, transportation and economy. Short called on Rotarians to take an interest in the outdoors and nature and to instill the interest in their children, to preserve the American way of life.

General Telephone Co. and George Ghearing, Circleville, Plant Superintendent, were in Williamsport.

In discussing the matter, Bow-en stated that the Company "would be very happy to furnish county-wide service but unhappy that they would have to charge more." The company has already filed a request to increase rates with the Public Utilities Commission, the hearing to be between December 20th and 30th.

If this increase is allowed, the county-wide service rate would still be an additional one. It's a never-ending spiral of increased Ringgold at 10:40 a. m. costs for steel, electrical equipment, poles, labor, etc. which is ultimately passed on to the consumer, according to informed sources.

8TH GRADE PROJECT - Local 8th grade students are right proud of the state of Ohio. As proof, the pupils erected an eye-catching bulletin board depicting some of the famous qualities and achievements of the Buckeye State. Pictured above, the bulletin board includes a buckeye tree, the state flag, carnations and a cardinal, the state's official flower and bird respectively. The board is centered by the Great Seal of Ohio, surrounded by Ohio's eight presidents. The colorful scence was made mostly from crepe paper. The project was under the direction of Harold Benner, 8th grade Ohio History teacher.
